Overview

Purposeful. Single-minded. Menacing. The Segestria Borealis by MSO is a striking incarnation of the renowned 600LT Spider. All the edgy power and performance of this pared-back road weapon is expressed in the striking design scheme.

The car's name is made up of two distinct elements...

Segestria comes from a venomous arachnid of the same name (segestria florentina) - its striking green fangs inspiring the twin Napier Green stripes that run from the car's nose to the flame-spitting top-exit exhaust at the tail.

While Borealis is the title of the black MSO Defined paint used across the body of the car - which shimmers through deep green, purple and claret undertones as the angle of light changes conveys the iridescent black body of the spider.

Web-like patterns finish the wing mirrors and fixed rear wing in the same Napier Green as the 'fang' stripes. And inside the cockpit, the bold colour theme subtly continues through stitching and web detailing on the seats.

An incredibly exclusive McLaren, the Segestria Borealis will be made in limited numbers. It is a singular example of the visionary creative approach of MSO.
